Cost Benefit Study of Green & Healthy Homes Interventions in Baltimore

Role: PI

This project is a HUD Healthy Homes Technical Studies grant to conduct a cost benefit study of reduction in medical and non-medical economics costs related to asthma resulting from the implementation of a Green & Healthy Homes Initiative™ (GHHI) in low-income homes in Baltimore, Maryland. The intervention involves health-based in-home health hazard remediations and weatherization expected to reduce the incidence and severity of episodic asthma-related health problems in low-income children enrolled in Medicaid.

Mental Health Treatment Study: Replication and Extended Impacts on Services Use

Role: PI

The Mental Health Treatment Study (MHTS) randomized trial for SSDI recipients with mental disorders enrolled 2,238 persons during 2006-2008, provided enhanced behavioral health services to these persons, and assessed impacts over a 2-year follow-up. Evaluation results, based on self-report data, revealed potentially important positive outcomes on (1) mental health status, (2) earnings, and (3) reduced use of inpatient and crisis outpatient services. We propose research to replicate and extend previous MHTS evaluation studies of service use impacts by analyzing a large database of CMS administrative data on MHTS trial enrollees. Our replications studies will broaden the scope of previous studies by including longer follow-up periods and a much wider range of behavioral health services covered by Medicare or Medicaid, including both inpatient and all outpatient services, as well as use of prescription pharmaceuticals.

Multiple-Impact Effectiveness of a State-Supported Employment Policy Initiative.

Grant from U.S. National Institute on Mental Health

Role: PI

This project is an observational study to examine a broad range of impacts produced by a state policy initiative that increased accessibility and availability of the evidence-based individual placement and support (IPS) model of supported-employment (SE) services for persons with severe mental illness (SMI) in Maryland. We study the experience of Maryland's public mental health system (PMHS) in facilitating the diffusion of IPS-SE services in the state. Our research exploits variations in accessibility and availability of IPS-SE services 1) over time in the period 2002-2010 and 2) across geographic areas of Maryland. We also examine variations across providers in fidelity to the IPS-SE model. We study the observed effectiveness of this state policy initiative in its actual operation and impact. We also expand the range of SE
